To Be, or Not to Be, a Sucker

One of the most popular of all writings is the kind in which humanity stands off and looks at itself. And prominent in any such picture is the well known "sucker." Ordinarily we look down on the sucker with condescension—but here is an article which discloses that the business of being a sucker has its own good points. From the Imperial Type Metal magazine I quote Editor William Feather:

Some people are tortured by even the suspicion that they are being played for a sucker. I once heard a wealthy man say that he often got pleasure from handing a waiter an extra dollar, but that if he caught a waiter

Germans Driven Back 8 Miles in Tula Sector

Soviet Dispatches Say Invaders Flee Through Cold in Underwear

By the Associated Press

Official Soviet dispatches reported Tuesday that the Germans were thrown back 8 miles by Red army counter attacks at Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow and that the surprised Nazis "ran and ran and ran" through bitter cold in their underwear in a "panic-stricken rout."

Coincidentally authorized London quarters said that many German soldiers were fighting on the snow-bound Russian front rigged out with women's fur clothing and other makeshift. They said very few were properly dressed and equipped for winter fighting.

On the Leningrad front the Russians claimed further success against the Nazi siege armies around the old Czarist capital and declared their troops captured positions held by the Germans for two months and were still advancing along the banks of the river "N"—presumably the Neva river just outside Leningrad.

Tass, Russian news agency, gave a graphic description of the Nazi rout at Tula:

"Taken by surprise by a Soviet bombardment at dawn, German infantry housed on the outskirts of the city threw away weapons as they fled but our cavalry caught up with the Fascists running down the street in their underwear. German officers fired in vain attempts to halt their troops."

In the Crimean campaign Adolf Hitler's field headquarters reported that German combat and dive-bomber planes dealt devastating blows to Soviet fortifications and port facilities at Sevastopol while Nazi infantrymen reported fighting before the city's outer defenses.

Nazi front line dispatches said 60 Russian transports were sunk and 60 others damaged in an aerial attack at Sevastopol and Gerch and other Black sea ports.

Washington Youth Finishes Air Course

Private James A. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thompson, Washington Route one, was graduated this week at Chamute Field where he has completed a course in airplane mechanics.

Young Thompson enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps, ground division in January of this year.

He Can Afford a Fine

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—The corn whiskey business has picked up so much here that he didn't mind being arrested a bit, a man picked up with three gallons confiscated to police.

"The price has jumped from $10 to $14 a case," he beamed as he laid $62 in folding money on the sergeant's desk. "I can afford a little set-back."

He was charged with possessing untaxed whisky in this dry state.

Quorum Court Votes $28,275 Appropriation

Funds Covering County Expenses For Year Approved Monday

The Hempstead Quorum court in a meeting at the courthouse here Monday appropriated a $28,275 budget, covering expenses of the county from January 1, 1941 to December 31, 1941 and to be collected in 1942.

Six towns, including Hope, Blewings, McCaskill, Oron, Fulton and Washington voted a 5 mill city tax which was approved by the court.

The group also approved school tax levies for the various districts in the county. The taxes ranged from 12 to 18 mills. The state ad valorem tax of 9 mills was approved along with the county general 5 mill levy and the 3 mill road tax.

Every appropriation was approved unanimously with the exception of the funds for the Hempstead County Library. Judge Fred A. Luck recommended an appropriation of $300 and the library committee urged that $400 be appropriated. A vote was 8 to 11 in favor of the $300 recommendation.

On the recommendation of Judge Luck, J. G. Prescott was retained as road commissioner. Other members of the commission are Judge Luck and Clifford Franks.

The court nominated and re-elected the same equalization board composed of T. J. Drake of Palmox, Vincent Foster of Hope and Earl N. Martindale of Bingen.

The following appropriations as suggested by Judge Fred A. Luck were approved by the court:

Japanese Cast Anxious Eyes on Washington

Foreign Minister Says Kuruasu Carried No New Instructions

TOKYO — (AP) — Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo told parliament Tuesday that Saburo Kuruasu, Japan's special envoy to Washington, "carried no new instructions" but intimated that the outcome of his mission would determine Japan's interpretation of obligations under the Axis alliance.

Premier General Hideki Tojo and Navy Minister Shigetaro Shimada declared to the same session that Japan's army and navy was fully ready for any eventuality but these statements were replied to questions concerning relations with Russia rather than the U. S.

In reply to a questioner Togo said the outcome of the talks which began in Washington Monday with President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, was unpredictable.

"It is still too early," he went on, "to state what effect the outcome will have on the third clause of the tripartite pact"—because of which obligates the signatory to lend all aid to its allies if they are attacked by powers not involved in the European and China wars.

He said that Kuruasu was sent to Washington only for the purpose of assisting Ambassador Nomura and carrying no new instructions. He intimated that Japan's fundamental position was not changed since the opening of the Washington talks which began seven months ago.

A ministerial declaration followed the meeting of the cabinet which the newspaper Asahi said was highly important and concerned the Kuruasu mission. Presumably the ministers considered the reports of the first meeting Monday with Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt.

There were many indications that the attention of both the cabinet and legislators were focused on Washington as the Diet session here.

The Diet gave approval of a military appropriations of 3,800,000,000 Yen, and an organ of the foreign office declared the choice of war or peace in the Pacific is with the United States.

Farmers to Bureau Meet

County to Be Represented at Federation's Session

Hempstead County Farm Bureau will be represented at the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation's seventh Annual meeting in Little Rock Thursday and Friday of this week by T. A. Cornelius, Mrs. H. Huskey, A. R. Averitt, Mrs. C. Somerville and Oliver L. Adams.

James A. Harris, Stokes S. Wafer, R. H. Trotter and Shag Jackson, all negro farm leaders, will attend the convention on Friday.

The local organization endorsed the continuation of all points in the 1941 Farm Bureau Program and submitted a resolution for the State Farm Bureau to give special assistance to securing 1941 AAA Conservation payments for farmers who have earned and justly due them.

Petitions signed by farmers from the proving ground area have been submitted to Senator Lloyd Spencer, Congressman Oren Harris, State Farm Bureau and Hempstead County AAA Committee. Several telegrams have been sent the Washington Office of the Farm Bureau and our senators relative to these payments by the local bureau during the past few months.

Coastal Survey Party Here

Group Busy Making Geodetic Survey of This Area

A party of 140 U. S. Coastal Geodetic Surveyors arrived in Hope Sunday and have been busy since working out positions in the county.

Through the courtesy of the city of Hope the group was afforded trailer space at the Fair park and water facilities, and praised Hope as the best place they had been.

The surveyors are here to determine by mathematics, observation and measurement exact positions of points of the earth in this area and variations of terrestrial gravity.

A geodetic survey is being made throughout the U. S. In case of an invasion of the United States, the survey would be very helpful to the defending forces.

Rebate on Gas Is Sought

Hope Brick Works Case in Progress at Texarkana

TEXARKANA — A case in which the Hope Brick company is seeking a rebate from the Arkansas Louisiana Gas company took up the entire day Monday in Arkansas federal court and was expected to occupy the courts attention most of Tuesday.

The Hope firm claims that the gas company reduced its rates for several establishments in the Hope area but did not reduce the rate charged the brick works.

Judge Lemley disposed of 19 criminal cases Friday when he sentenced nine defendants to prison terms of from one to three years and placed ten on probation.

The remainder of this term of court will be devoted to civil cases.

Pictures Wanted of Local Boys in Navy

The Star wants pictures of Hempstead, Nevada and LaFayette county boys who are now serving in the United States Navy—to be published in connection with the forthcoming Navy Recruiting Campaign. Pictures should be brought to the newspaper office immediately, and all will be returned. Here are instructions:

1. Write on back of picture the boys names, and name and address of parents. Advise when the boy enlisted, his class, and his present location.

2. Any clear picture will do, glossy photos being preferred. DO NOT SUBMIT COLORED OR TINTED PICTURES. Whether the boy is in uniform or not makes no difference.

Also, any letters written home by local sailors, telling of naval life, will be appreciated, and The Star will return these to their owners just as it will return the photographs.

Two Men Shot When 53,000 Miners Walk Out

Sources Say Roosevelt Ready to Exert Full Power to Halt Strike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Disorders, including the shooting of two men, broke out at strike affected Captive coal mines in West Virginia and Pennsylvania Tuesday as President Roosevelt was reported ready to exert the full powers of the government to get production to resume.

The United Mine Workers called out its membership in the captive mines, owned by the U. S. Steel companies, Monday. About 53,000 miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Illinois, work in the mines and UMW union claims about a 95 per cent membership.

President Roosevelt said the coal must be mined to keep the vital steel mills in operations on armaments.

Anti-Strike Legislation

It has been demanded on Capital Hill for anti-strike legislation, persons in close touch with the President said Tuesday that he was convinced that now was the time to act to stop interference with defense production.

The governor of Alabama, Frank Dixon, ordered home guard units mobilized due to the situation created by the strike of 8,000 miners and the threat of a strike of the Fairfield Plant of the Tennessee Coal and Rail company.

About 200 men moved into the Birmingham area.

The first serious coal strike disorder was a fight at number 10 mine of the U. S. Coal and Coke company at Gary, W. Va., in which a negro stableman and a negro motorman were shot and wounded.

15 to 20 Shots Fired

Officials of the independent union imposing the UMW walkout said United Mine Workers pickets fired 15 or 20 shots. A foreman said 153 men of a normal force of 220 went to work in the mine.

Pickets closed the number 6 mine at Gary, the largest of six which operated Monday despite the strike called.

There was brief but bloodless fight at the Steel Mines in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, when 50 non-strikers started through 100 pickets. The pickets dispersed after the arrival of state police.

The president is losing patience." one informant declared, "he is getting ready to crack-down and hard on John Lewis or anybody else holding up defense production."

There was still no indication what course Mr. Roosevelt was contemplating but the belief was widespread that the action would be soon.

CHAPTER 1

THE offices of Durbin and Thorpe were exactly like any other successful law firm's—the usual, rather musty, book-lined affair. But to Diana Tucker these rooms represented security of the most desirable sort on this, the last afternoon of her two weeks' notice.

Her dismissal had not come exactly as a surprise. She had been nervous and ill-at-ease ever since she had taken the job. Mr. Durbin had been kind and considerate, admonishing her to take things easily and calmly, but depositions had become the nightmares of her existence, and deeds, wills, and codicils anathema to her soul.

Richard Thorpe, the junior partner whose personal secretary she was really supposed to be, had not been so patient with her mistakes. Diana had disliked him instantly. An extraordinarily handsome man with a slave-driver complex.

Diana knew that he had numerous "affairs" with women posing as clients, and when she first came into the office, she made the mistake of refusing his invitation to dinner rather coldly. Thereafter he had become her tormentor.

Miss Montgomery, a caustic young lady with fawn-colored hair, an assertive manner and 10 years' legal experience, had come a week before. Efficiency fairly oozed from Miss Montgomery's lacquered finger tips, and since her coming Diana had been relegated to such unimportant tasks as greeting clients and opening the mail. Of course, Miss Montgomery could have done all this too, with scarcely an extra flicker of her mascaraed lashes.

ALONE for a moment in the outer office, Diana walked to the window and looked out. The first snow of the season swirled in eddying circles about the heads of pedestrians in Center street eight stories below. Lights from shop windows made little spots of brilliance on the sidewalks in the fast-gathering gloom.

She thought of how things looked at home now—she'd probably be back at the farm in a few days. Desolate, windswept barrenness—and after this taste of another life, desperate loneliness.

Not that Diana did not love her home. The staid, clippard house had always been her special haven. Her hard-working mother and father, her sister and brothers were more than dear to her. But her father had said, when he watched this loveliest child blossoming into womanhood, "We won't be able to keep her much longer, Dora. Beauty like hers is made for a much finer setting!"

The outer door opened and Richard Thorpe came in, followed by a tall man who walked with a long swinging stride and carried a brief case. Nodding briefly to Diana, they passed into Mr. Thorpe's private office and closed the door.

Diana wondered if the tall man was a new client. Another lawyer perhaps. There was something striking, distinguished even, about his appearance. She had seen that he had a strong, jutting jaw and blue eyes which swept Diana briefly.

She turned back to her contemplation of the street below. Before another hour had passed, she would be one of that hurrying

Suddenly, something long dammed up burst within Diana. She rose, trembling, realizing that in her contemplation of Stephen Curt she had entirely lost track of what Thorpe was saying, and slammed down her dictation book.

"You're quite right, Mr. Thorpe," she said, her voice hot with fury. "I do NOT intend to take either your dictation or your insults!"

through—but without a destination. During her two months with Durbin and Thorpe, she had not managed to save anything. She had needed shoes and a winter coat. Dresses to make her presentable at the office. Food and shelter. During the last two weeks she had been exceedingly frugal. She had eaten fruit in her room for breakfast, a sandwich at noon, only allowing herself one good meal a day—and for a girl whose appetite was formed on a farm, this entailed some sacrifice.

There was $8 in her purse now. Mr. Durbin would give her a check for $20 more—and when that was gone . . .

They'd be glad to have her back at the farm. She was really needed there. Her mother was always complaining because of the fact that when her two daughters were old enough to be of some help they had left—Elsa to marry a young garage mechanic in Forston, and Diana to study at the business college in town.

There was Bill Jackson, too, who ran the store at the crossroads and who wanted to marry Diana. Her mother always said she couldn't see what more Diana wanted than Bill and the comfortable home he would give her. Diana often wondered, too. Yet she'd said:

"Please, Bill, I must have a try at making my own way."
"I'll wait," he answered, "until you come back—and you will come back. The love of the land is bred in your bones, Diana."

Now it looked like Bill might be right—she'd be going home in a few days. But being on her own satisfied something within her. Immediately, and her appointment to the offices of Durbin and Thorpe had seemed heaven-sent.

If she had only been able to meet the requirements, if only Thorpe had been tolerant.

THE sound of Richard Thorpe's buzzer brought her back to reality, and she hastened to get her notebook and pencil. She didn't like taking dictation from Thorpe any more than he liked giving it to her and knew that if Miss Montgomery had been free at the moment he would have

Ouachita, Tech Meet Friday

State Championship at Stake When Two Meet

ARKADELPHIA — The climax of Arkansas intercollegiate football for the current season will be reached here next Friday afternoon, November 21, when the Ouachita College Tigers, undefeated in the state, battle the powerful Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys for the state championship.

This classic of the year in scheduled to open at 2 p. m. and given favorable weather should draw a capacity attendance from the four corners of the state.

Although Ouachita's stadium and bleachers have a combined seating capacity of more than 5,000, Leonard Rice, business manager of the college, in announcing the advance sale of tickets today, expressed doubt that this would prove sufficient to seat the crowd.

The championship tussle will find two of the greatest teams ever produced in the state fighting it out on more or less even terms. Both squads are well balanced, each having good lines and backfields. The Techmen, whose goal line had not been crossed until the Tigers downed them 7 to 0, to spoil their homecoming on October 31, hold a slight edge over Ouachita in the line, with a decided weight advantage. On the other hand, Ouachita's ball-carrying department rates slightly above Tech's.

Coach W. I. (Bill) Walton, ably assisted by Coach Wesley Bradshaw, has done an outstanding job in the last two years in bringing back the Tigers

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or acute passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nursing headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

to a highly respected place in intercollegiate athletics. His team will go into the championship game as favorites, but square-jawed John Tucker, long outstanding as head coach at Tech, will be striving for a victory to send his hearties into a tie with Ouachita for the state laurels.

While Ouachita must play its ancient grid foe, Henderson State, and Tech must play Arkansas State Teachers, in final games on Thanksgiving Day, November 27, neither of these can have more than a remote and indirect bearing on the state championship, and both will be anti-climax to the Ouachita-Tech affair.

Hope Boys In Puerto Rico

Clyde Browning Writes From Army Base There

The following letter was received here Monday from Clyde Browning, Hope boy, who along with 2 other Hempstead county boys are stationed with the U. S. Army in Puerto Rico:

Hope Star,
Hope, Arkansas.
Dear Friends:

"As you probably know I am stationed here in Puerto Rico, having been here three weeks.

"One of the things I miss most is the home town news and that naturally brings to mind the old HOPE STAR.

"I would appreciate it very much if you would send me the subscription rates.

"So far I like Puerto Rico fine. It is a beautiful island but not exactly a paradise for a soldier. Still, Borinquen is the best base in the Caribbean. Jimmy (Porter, also of Hope) and I get together nearly every night, along with Lester Kassinger from McCaskill, and that makes things a lot better.

"I am working on the line airplane mechanics and like it fine. Sincerely,
Clyde Browning

A Real He-Man Movie Style

ABERDEEN, Wash.—(AP)—On the way home from a movie with his girl, Jim Clark showed her what he-men are like. He reed and shot a 200-pound bear that had roamed the outskirts of the city two months, robbing orchards and frightening housewives and children. They sighted him near a river bank. Clark jumped out of his car, waved a flashlight and the bear took to a tree. Edith Olson rushed to Clark's home for a 12-gauge shotgun. One shot was enough. "Oh, year, a couple of times the bear started to come down," Clark boasted later. "But I just waved the flashlight and yelled, 'You stay up there,' and he stayed."

County Agent Advises Farmers to Fertilize

Most dairymen and stockmen in Hempstead County would like to have more and better pasture. With it they could produce more in the Oliver L. Adams, county agent, reports that farmers can improve their pastures by applying fertilizers, sometimes with lime and sometimes without it, and by careful management of their grass-producing lands.

The results of test demonstrations on the use of high phosphate fertilizers, which were conducted on 284 farms in 17 Arkansas counties in cooperation with the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture and the TVA, shows that it is not uncommon

Behind Scenes on Neutrality

Interesting Movement May Have Far-reaching Effect

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Behind the scenes in congressional debate on revision of the neutrality bill, an interesting little movement developed which may have far-reaching effect.

The most effective way of getting things accomplished in our form of government is by a bit of horse-trading. Recently members in both houses threw out hints that they would no longer string along with the administration on foreign policy and national defense unless some things were done to straighten out a few domestic messes—principally national defense strikes and non-defense economies.

Neither Senator Byrd of Virginia nor Tiedings of Maryland has been too friendly with the administration, but both have for the most part, strung along and even fought for national defense. Now they have intimated publicly that they will no longer be interested in furthering administration foreign policy legislation until the White House gives the green light to measures designed to clean up internal affairs.

In the House, Representative Cox of Georgia, strongly in favor of revising the neutrality act, told the rules committee that congress ought to run up the stop signal to all such legislation until something is done about strikes impeding national defense production.

These public pronouncements aren't the only ones. In the cloakrooms and in private office sessions, other members of congress have stated baldly that non-defense economies and some form of legislation to curb strikes have to be the next order of business.

There are two other important straws in the wind: (1) "Temporary" deferment by the House Ways and Means committee of administration's new five billion tax bill; and (2) the rapidly increasing number of bills to curb strikes that are piling up in the hoppers in both houses.

Although deferment of consideration of new $4,800,000,000 tax measure must be considered "temporary," the fact that the committee refused to jump into high after both Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and the President stamped the bill "for immediate action" is considered by observers as most significant.

In the proposed measure also is that all-important provision for withdrawal of amounts up to 15 per cent on all payrolls, that amount to be checked-off for payment of income taxes. The administration wants this check-off to start January 1. It got so vast a tax bill through congress by that time would mean that the Ways and Means committee would be working like mad now if it had any intention of getting it ready as per the administration request.

To list all of the anti-strike and strike-curb bills that have been introduced in the house and senate and explain even in a sentence what they are would take more than this full space.

The latest, at this writing, is one by Sen. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, who, although a Republican, has given the administration whole-hearted support on its defense and foreign policy measures. Senator Bridges, in introducing his bill, called on congress "to accept its responsibility and act promptly, without waiting for the President to take the initiative."

Young Senator Ball of Minnesota also has a bill before congress providing for a "cooling-off period" before strike action. Senator O'Daniel of Texas has introduced another, following closely the lines of his state measure in Texas.

Senator Herring, an administration leader in the upper house, is reported to be drafting still another bill that would provide a "cooling-off period"; federally supervised secret ballots on the vote to strike; and an "open shop" on all defense projects.

It is hard to conceive that out of all of this some action won't come—and soon.

Tom-toms drive you NUTS!

It is said that no man can stand the monotonous beat of jungle drums. At first the rhythm interests you, then it gets on your nerves. When you hear it all day long you're hypnotized. The second day you go berserk and will follow any leader the same as the savage does.

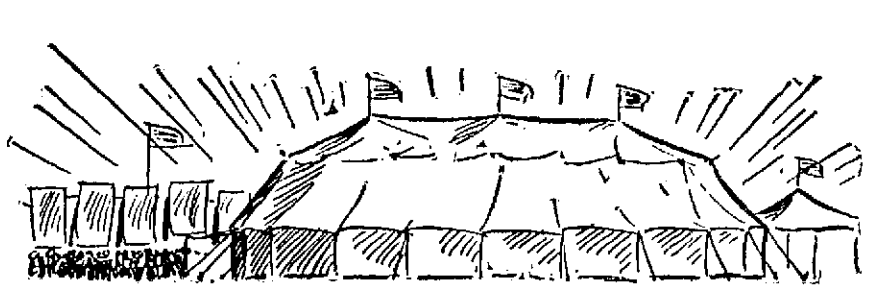

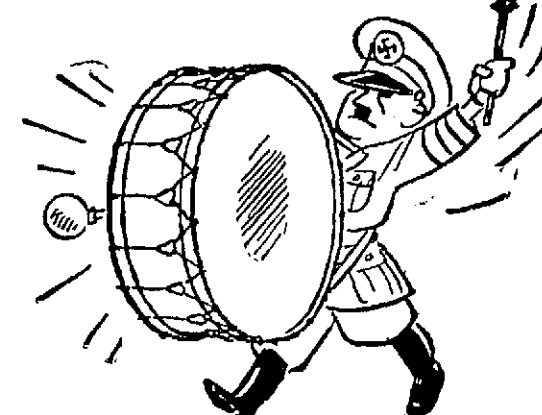

Dictators know what "beating the drums" does to people. So they take their pet slogans and put them on the radio. They shut off all other listening. They disregard all the facts, all opinions except their own and repeat the same slogans over and over in their newspapers.

Here's how Hitler says to do it, in his famous book, "MEIN KAMPF":

"The great masses' understanding is small, their forgetfulness is great. All effective propaganda must limit itself to only a very few points and use them like slogans until every last man is able to imagine what is intended."

Compare this with YOUR newspaper. It is filled with a thousand interesting and varied facts. It prints the opinions of all sorts—even HITLER'S opinions! But there is no monotonous beating of the tom-toms of propaganda in it!

Variety, interest, color—and with them a high degree of RELIABILITY—that is what an American newspaper offers. It's like a three-ring circus; something doing every minute.

Next time you hear someone proposing to hand the control of America's free press over to some one-sided group, no matter WHAT group, remember this tom-tom story. Remember that America CAN'T be hypnotized, and misled as long as its people are free to read, hear and discuss all sides of every question.

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.
